Student's Guide

For the Teacher

The pages in this Student's Guide follow the Teacher's Guide.

You can modify, add to, or delete pages in this guide according to how you want to proceed. Some texts are grouped together. You can ungroup them to modify the content.

This guide does not include pages for vocabulary, grammar and language chunks you might want to introduce or review with your students. You can add pages for this purpose.

Considering the level and course code for this learning situation, it could be a good idea to print most of the pages for students, unless they are provided with their own computers or other devices.

Introduction

What to Do If You're in a Car Accident

Share Print

There are certain things you must do if you're involved in a car accident.

1. On this Web page, can we find information about what to do?
2. Why or why not?

Introduce Learning Situation (Part 1)

Being Involved in a Minor Car Accident

You and your friend were involved in a minor car accident. Your friend was driving when another car hit your friend's car. Nobody was injured. Your friend wants to drive away. The other driver wants to call the police.

What do you think you should do?

Questions:

1. What happened?
2. Was anybody injured?
3. What does your friend want to do?
4. What does the other driver want to do?

Read a Web Page and Identify Main Ideas

- Read the Éducaloi website article on car accidents.
 - Car accidents: What to Do
www.educaloi.qc.ca/en/capsules/car-accidents-what-do
- Answer the questions below.
- Compare your answers with a classmate.

1. Should your friend drive away?
2. Do you have to call the police? Why or why not?

3. What do you have to do?

Learning Situation (Part 2)

Your friend didn't have all the necessary information and doesn't speak English. The other driver was also missing documents and only speaks English.

Call the other driver to exchange information.

Ask the other driver for the information that you need.

Give the information the other driver asks for.

Complete the Joint Report.

Fill Out a Joint Report

- Get into pairs.
- One student is the friend of the driver of Vehicle A.
- One student is the driver of Vehicle B.
- Look at the first section of the Joint Report of Automobile Accident on page 7 of this guide.
 1. How many sections are there?
 2. What information is already there?
 3. What information do you need to write?
 4. Who is the witness?

Fill Out a Joint Report

- Look at the rest of the report.
- Is there any missing information?
- Ask each other questions about the missing information.
- Fill in the rest of the report with the information your partner gives you.

Introduce Learning Situation (Part 3)

The Joint Report is now complete.

What should your friend do with it? Your friend's back fender is badly dented. The other driver's left head-light is broken and the hood of her car is bent.

Your friend wants to ask the other driver for money. The other driver refuses to pay.

Read a Web Page for Specific Details

Activity 7

- Look again at the article on car accidents on the Éducaloi website.
- Give your friend advice
 1. What should your friend do with the Joint Report?
 2. Can your friend's insurance cover "material damage"?
 3. Should your friend repair the car before talking with the insurer?
 4. Will the insurance cover all the damage?
What does this depend on?
 5. Can your friend choose where to repair the car?

Reflection

- Think about what you did to complete this learning situation.
- What did you learn about car accidents and car insurance?

- Do you agree with the sentences below? Or do you have to review an Éducaloi article to make sure you understand?
 1. I can talk about minor car accidents.
 2. I know what to do if I have a minor car accident.
 3. I can use website categories and titles of texts to find information.
 4. I can read articles from the Éducaloi website to find answers to questions about car insurance and car accidents.
 5. I can ask questions in order to fill out a form.
