Looking for clues: the dictionary is your ally

Important! Some historical documents use complex language. It's normal for you not to understand all of the words in the texts on the following pages.

As detectives or historians, analyze the clues as best you can to understand each situation. The guiding questions will help you understand the essential information in each document. Some of the definitions are provided, but a dictionary is still your best friend!

What is a “bill”?

A “bill” is the term used for the text of a proposed law. In Quebec, it’s a member of the National Assembly who writes the bill and presents it to the rest of the Assembly. After several sessions of discussion and debate, the members of the Assembly vote: they decide whether the bill should become a law that all of society must respect.

When the members of the Assembly vote “Yes” to a bill, it is “adopted” and becomes law.

Important! Decriminalizing does not mean legalizing! When a gesture or action is decriminalized, a person cannot be charged with a crime for performing this action. For example, if the possession of a drug is decriminalized, a person who possesses this drug cannot go to prison.

Context

In the late 1960's a bill known as the Omnibus Bill was introduced with the aim of modifying the Criminal Code. The passing of this bill resulted in changes in the law governing different areas, including homosexuality. Some of the propositions of this bill were considered controversial at the time, notably the idea of decriminalizing homosexual acts under certain conditions. In 1967, Pierre Trudeau, the Federal Justice Minister at the time, pronounced a statement on this topic that later became famous. According to the Minister's statement, "There's no place for the state in the bedrooms of the nation".

Civil Marriage Act

Civil Marriage Act

S.C. 2005, c. 33

Assented to 2005-07-20

An Act respecting certain aspects of legal capacity for marriage for civil purposes

Preamble

WHEREAS the Parliament of Canada is committed to upholding the Constitution of Canada, and section 15 of the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms guarantees that every individual is equal before and under the law and has the right to equal protection and equal benefit of the law without discrimination;

WHEREAS the courts in a majority of the provinces and in one territory have recognized that the right to equality without discrimination requires that couples of the same sex and couples of the opposite sex have equal access to marriage for civil purposes;

WHEREAS the Supreme Court of Canada has recognized that many Canadian couples of the same sex have married in reliance on those court decisions;

WHEREAS only equal access to marriage for civil purposes would respect the right of couples of the same sex to equality without discrimination, and civil union, as an institution other than marriage, would not offer them that equal access and would violate their human dignity, in breach of the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms;

WHEREAS the Supreme Court of Canada has determined that the Parliament of Canada has legislative jurisdiction over marriage but does not have the jurisdiction to establish an institution other than marriage for couples of the same sex;

WHEREAS everyone has the freedom of conscience and religion under section 2 of the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms;

WHEREAS nothing in this Act affects the guarantee of freedom of conscience and religion and, in particular, the freedom of members of religious groups to hold and declare their religious beliefs and the freedom of officials of religious groups to refuse to perform marriages that are not in accordance with their religious beliefs;

WHEREAS it is not against the public interest to hold and publicly express diverse views on marriage;

WHEREAS, in light of those considerations, the Parliament of Canada's commitment to uphold the right to equality without discrimination precludes the use of section 33 of the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms to deny the right of couples of the same sex to equal access to marriage for civil purposes;

WHEREAS marriage is a fundamental institution in Canadian society and the Parliament of Canada has a responsibility to support that institution because it strengthens commitment in relationships and represents the foundation of family life for many Canadians;

AND WHEREAS, in order to reflect values of tolerance, respect and equality consistent with the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms, access to marriage for civil purposes should be extended by legislation to couples of the same sex;
